First Skagway Lilith Faire brings local women on stage

By Gretchen Wehmhoff

The first official Lilith Faire hit the stage in Happy Endings Saloon (Haps) Sept. 17-19. Three days of entertainment at a packed house brought local musicians, comedians, burlesque and dancing as the summer tourist season started to wind down.

The Faire has been a pet project of Haps owner, Beth Smith, for years.

"There are so many talented women in town. I just thought it'd be so cool to celebrate them and do our own little Skagway affair," Smith said.

In 2019, she had a group working to put one together for 2020, but the COVID-19 pandemic put the brakes on plans.

Smith let it simmer until February of this year.

"I just kind of put it on the back burner. I started playing around with it again, reaching out to people and seeing if they were interested."

And they were.

By the time the season was slowing down, Smith and her team of supporters had three nights of entertainment planned.

On Thursday, Sept. 17, the local singing duo Jaime Bricker and Tatum Sager opened with guitar and ukulele, followed by the Bushwhackers, Matt Deach, Nat Healy, and Eliza Marie Russell. It was Russell's first public performance on the electric guitar, singing songs she had written. Deach and Healy picked them up and the gig was a hit.

It was comedy night on Friday, Sept. 18, with Deb Potter, followed by Charity Pomeroy. Meg Alina Pow-

Man responsible for fentanyl deaths in Skagway sentenced

By Gretchen Wehmhoff

A Washington man was sentenced Sept. 21 to 25 years in prison for conspiracy to distribute and possess with the intent to distribute fentanyl and distribution of fentanyl resulting in death.

According to court documents, Jacob Cotton, 35, of Spokane, Wash., agreed to sell and mail fentanyl pills to an individual for distribution in Skagway. The plan was to have Cotton buy fentanyl in Spokane for a lower price and then charge a premium price for purchase in Skagway. Cotton and the individual agreed to split any distribution proceeds.

At the time of the agreement, Skagway was "dry," meaning there was no fentanyl available in the community.

On Jan. 9, 2023, Cotton shipped a parcel containing the pills from Spokane to the individual in Skagway via the U.S. Postal Service. On Jan. 12, the individual contacted multiple people, indicating the pills were available for purchase.

A day later, on Jan. 13, Anthony Bowers, 28, believed to be selling the pills, was found unresponsive in his home. He was declared deceased after resuscitation attempts by first responders. Less than 24 hours later, on Jan. 14, 44-year-old James Cook was found dead in his home. The State of Alaska Medical Examiner's Office later determined both Skagway victims died from acute toxic effects of fentanyl.

Skagway police recovered a plastic bag with 62 fentanyl pills hidden in a computer

Lilith Faire entertains Skagway

er (the comedian formerly known as Meg Mullins) wrapped up the laughs and DJ Lisa Parker finished the night with dancing.

Saturday night, Sept. 19, started with Libby Brown with John Colosky and Tim Sislo followed by the Burlesque Power Hour. Anya Close, Johanna Evans, Tiffany Metz and Tim Sislo entertained the crowd to cheers and laughter in a set of classic, yet so Skagway, burlesque. The band, Wildflowers, closed the night – late into the night. Members Danny Dobbins, Calvin Hillman, John Mead, Andrew Puffer, Hailee Sue and lead singer Meg Starr played until closing.

Smith credits her staff as superheroes. "They are a very small staff, and they make a lot of big things happen," she said.

"On Saturday night they were calling it their staff party because they had every single person working that night. They were in a great mood. They loved it. They are so awesome," Smith said

Smith credits other women for helping make it happen, including Jaime Bricker, Johanna Evans and Nat Healy.

She has already received interest from performers and audience members asking about a repeat next year. She is planning for one but may decide to have it earlier in the summer. She said the audience enjoyed it this year, but it put a lot of pressure on performers who were struggling with end-of-season fatigue while also preparing to perform.

Smith is more than satisfied with the results and the emphasis on the original goal.

"The whole meaning of the weekend really was just for women to be lifting up other women and just empowering them because they're so talented. I just love it when other women uplift each other. It doesn't happen nearly enough."

The SKAGWAY NEWS will be published the second and fourth Friday of the month beginning Oct. 9. Gretchen is sticking around for awhile.

tower in Bowers home. Cotton had shipped 150 pills.

During trial, prosecutors presented records confirming Cotton's shipment of drugs, digital messages, and payment records connected to the illegal drug sales.

Cotton was arrested June 3, 2024, by Skagway's Police Chief JJ Reddick and Officer James Michels at the Juneau International Airport as he arrived on a flight from Anchorage after a tip from the Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA).

After Cotton was in custody, Reddick told The Skagway News that the arrest came after a multi-agency investigation with SPD, Southeast Alaska Cities Against Drugs (SEACAD) and the DEA.

"We would also like to thank the family, friends and community for the support and cooperation during this investigation," Reddick said.

Reddick recognized Michels for his commitment to the case.

"His diligence in this case has been a huge asset to our community," Reddick said.

Cotton was convicted of one count of conspiracy to distribute and possess with the intent to distribute fentanyl resulting in death, and one count of distribution of fentanyl resulting in death. The federal jury also found Cotton guilty of a "death resulting" enhancement for both victims, which required proof that the fentanyl pills Cotton distributed were the cause of each victim's death.

"The defendant knowingly supplied a lethal narcotic to a small southeast Alaska community that resulted in the deaths of two individuals and the overdoses of two others in the community," said U.S. Attorney Michael J. Heyman for the District of Alaska. "Let this be a warning—whether you are an international drug trafficker or a street-level dealer—if you endanger the lives of Alaskans, we will vigorously prosecute offenders and hold them to account for the carnage they create in all Alaskan communities."

VOTE OCTOBER 6

Assembly
Jennifer Castle

Hello Skagway! I'm Jennifer Castle, and I'm running for the Assembly. I'm very excited about the possibility I could serve my community in this way. I'd like to share a little more about myself, my life here in Skagway and what it means to me to serve as an assembly member.

I moved to Skagway in 2004 with my 10-year-old twins, intending to make Skagway my permanent home. My mother, fondly known as Naughty Nadine, had worked at the quilt store for a couple of summers and introduced me to the town. The kids went to school, and I started my local work career at the Skagway Outlet Store. We spent that summer in a tent trailer at what was, at the time, Hanousek RV Park on 14th and Broadway. Since then, I've been in and out of Skagway, sometimes traveling in the off-season to stay with family - primarily in Oregon, where I'm from. I've spent 15 winters and 19 summers being a part of the Skagway community. In 2023, I lost my mother to cancer shortly after returning to Skagway, and I have been a permanent resident since. I've worked multiple jobs in town, most recently as the GM and one of the owners of Klondike Tours. Skagway is my home.

Assembly
KayLynn Howard

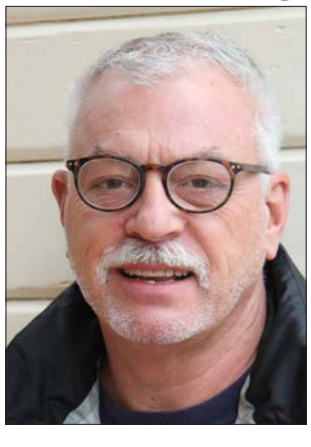

My name is KayLynn Howard, and I am running for Skagway Assembly in the upcoming election. Many of you may know me, but even in a tight-knit community like ours, we don't always cross paths and get to talk. I moved to Skagway in 2016 to work for the National Park Service as a Park Ranger. Throughout my time in Skagway, I have worked for a variety of entities including the NPS, MOS, STC, Eagles, Elks, and more. My degree is in Parks, Recreation, and Tourism. The expertise gained during my schooling is something I continually utilize during my professional life. Over the years, I have volunteered for the Eagles Auxiliary, serving as secretary, trustee, and currently as auditor. I have served on the Clinic Board and Skagway Child Care Council as well. I have two kids who attend the Skagway School. I am proud to be raising them here. I have a vested interest in childcare and education opportunities for our youth and families.

I care deeply about our community and the sustainability of both our economy and the people who call Skagway home. Some key issues that I see actively facing Skagway are:

• Our Housing Crisis - availability and affordability for residents. I do believe we are at a crossroads that must be addressed in a timely manner. To me, this includes passing the bond issue with Garden City RV Park and beginning to implement plans to parcel the lots off for year-round housing.
• A diverse economy - to ensure a stable future and aim for a

Chloe Miller School Board

My name is Chloe Miller. You may know me from my many years working at Kone Kompany. I grew up in Skagway and attended Skagway School pre-K through graduation. I recently graduated from the University of Alaska Fairbanks, where I served as the senate clerk for the student government for two years. I'm running to be on the Skagway School Board because I received a great education at Skagway School, thanks to the amazing teachers and staff. I want to be a part of creating opportunities for bright futures for the youth of Skagway. My goals are to ensure Skagway School continues to be a safe environment for all students and that parents and the community are always in the loop with what's happening at the school. Our teachers have created an environment where Skagway students thrive and excel in education. It's the school board's responsibility to ensure teachers have the resources necessary to continue doing so. I want to find ways, through the community and other sources, to provide opportunities for the kids of Skagway to expand their horizons. Even though we're in a small town, I think it's important for them to explore career options for after graduation while still in school. I would appreciate your vote, and remember to write in Chloe Miller.

Kerri Raia School Board

My name is Kerri Raia, a year-round resident of Skagway. I was elected to the Skagway School Board in October of 2025 and am seeking reelection for a three-year term.

I first came to Skagway in 2018. My daughter is in Pre-K at Skagway School. I have worked in tourism, early childhood education, and food service since relocating to Skagway. I served as the FOE Auxiliary's Madam Vice President 2025-2026. I am the Treasurer of Good Neighbor Volunteers (The Kitchen Sink) and the Secretary of Log Cabin Ski Society. Currently, I am a stay-at-home mom and small business owner. You may have seen me out cleaning local homes and businesses or selling homemade jewelry at an artisan market. I believe the wide array of my professional experience in this community gives me a proper understanding of the families our local school serves.

This past June, I attended the NWEA Fusion conference in Orlando with several other Skagway educators. There, I learned so much about MAP testing and the importance of the data this standardized test provides to educators and families. This is especially important knowledge given that our school is the top-achieving school in our state.

I hope to continue volunteering on the school board, as I am passionate about supporting our local school community.

My family is welcoming our second child in January, so I will be out of Skagway for a few months while I am seeking out-of-state medical care in Denver, Colorado. I remain dedicated to my responsibilities as a school board member and will be virtually present at each meeting while I am away.

The following is a Public Service Announcement sponsored by The Skagway News. No monies or compensation was given for this announcement below. The Skagway News believes this information is important to the Skagway community. Info from Skagway.org.

Skagway kids spend time with Disney Cruise Lines staff

By Gretchen Wehmhoff

Disney Wonder crew members joined Skagway students from Junior Achievement of Alaska on Sept. 24, sharing their own career paths and offering a firsthand look at the range of jobs that keep a cruise ship running. Disney says the conversation gave students an opportunity to hear directly from maritime professionals and learn more about careers that can begin with many different interests, skills and backgrounds. Earlier this summer, Skagway Summer Camp participants toured the Disney Wonder while it was in port.

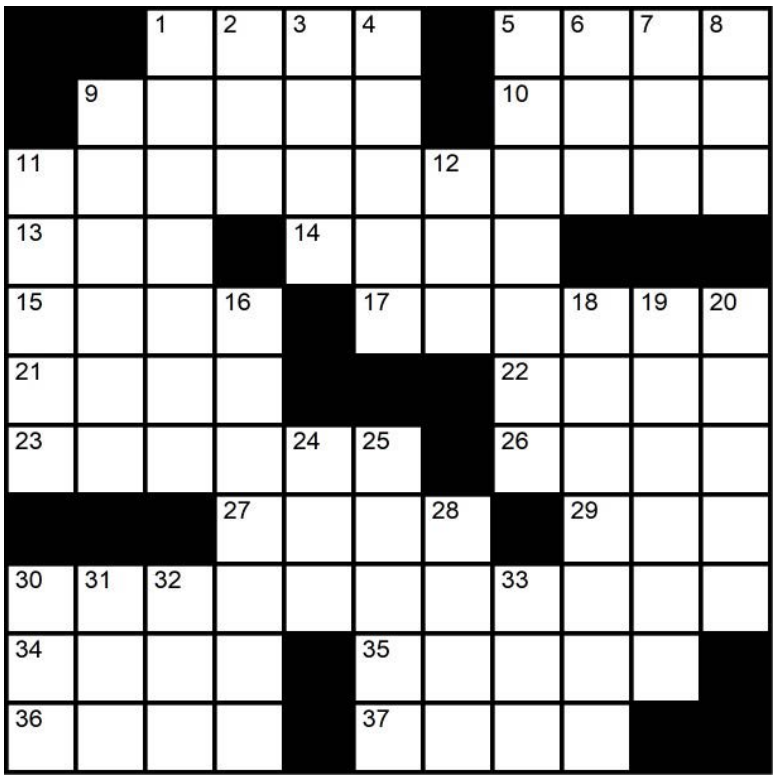

"Our students see ships visit throughout the season, but getting to talk directly with the people who make those operations possible is a completely different experience," said Mackenzie Platschorre, Vice President of Secondary Programs for Junior Achievement of Alaska, Inc. "Opportunities like these help students see the maritime industry not just as something happening around them, but as a place where they can explore their interests, envision the possibilities ahead, and see how their actions today can help build a choice-filled life."

Be Bear Aware

The Skagway Police Department is warning residents that bear activity has been reported within Skagway city limits. They suggest everyone be alert, especially at night when bears are most active. Never leave trash or other bear attractants outside; securing them helps reduce bear activity and the risk that a bear may need to be dispatched. If you see a bear or signs of one, contact SPD at 907-983-2232
